

POPE SENDS HIS MESSAGE

Cardinal Vanutelli Tells People of Quebec of Pope's Regard for French-Canadians

WAS A GREAT RECEPTION

Crowds Cheered the Envoy of the Vatican As He Passed Along the Streets

Quebec, Sept. 2.—"I know that the Catholics in Canada love the Holy Father and I wish to add that the Holy Father well knows their noble and patriotic spirit," says Cardinal Vanutelli, one of the constancy in faith, "I wish to add that the Holy Father has confided to me a mission which I have to fulfil. I tell you that the Holy Father has you very near to his heart, that he has every affection for French Canadians, and that he blesses you from the very depths of his heart."

This was the message brought to Canada from the Vatican by His Eminence Cardinal Vanutelli, who arrived in Quebec shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon and whom old Quebec received with regal welcome to judge from the immense crowds that spread over every available spot. Every available window and roof from which a glimpse might be obtained of the papal legate crowded, cheering the highest dignitaries to the humbleness of the church, turned out to greet the Pope's envoy. Hours before the Empress of Ireland, bearing his eminence was due at her wharf, Dufferin Terrace was packed with crowds, all eagerly glancing down the river to catch the first glimpse of the liner and the enthusiasm at every point was such as to leave no doubt as to the heartiness of the greeting. The progress of His Eminence from the wharf through the streets and during every phase of the day's ceremonies was one long echo and re-echo of cheers.

DUTY OF CHURCH TO MOULD NATION

Archbishop Bourne Gave a Stirring Address at the Knights of Columbus Reception

"The duty of the church is to take its part in the assimilating of the diverse peoples of this country into one great nation, and I have no fear for the future of a nation made up of so many peoples."

The British, Celts, Saxon, the Dutch and the Norman have proved to be the strength of the British race, and I look for a like strength in the people of Canada from the union of the diverse peoples making their homes upon her fair-stretching prairies."

Such was the sentiment expressed by His Grace Archbishop Bourne, primate of the Roman Catholic church for all England, at a reception given in his honor by the Knights of Columbus in the separate school hall last night. Nearly four hundred of the laymen of the Catholic Church in Edmonton and Strathcona were present to hear and to meet His Grace, who chatted with everyone in his distinct personality and affable manner. Wilfrid Carrigan, Grand Knight of the local Council, presided.

After being introduced by Mr. Garriety, His Grace made a delightful address in English, followed by a few words in French. He expressed his belief in the axiom "Sunny Alberta," and stated that he was much pleased with the province, of which he had heard a great deal. He then proceeded to dwell upon the work of the church, and pointed out what it was accomplishing in the way of moulding a heterogeneous mixture into one great people. In closing he paid a tribute to Edmonton, expressing his opinion that the destiny of this city was to rank among the greatest municipalities of the continent.

WOMEN'S AGES NO LONGER A SECRET

Paris, Sept. 2.—No longer will judges hold to the old practice of asking: "Madam, your age, please?" and after she has done lying: "Now, be sworn," for a scientist has figured out how to ascertain milady's age—approximately at least.

Instead of asking useless questions the judges take one of the lady's hands and feels her pulse, after ascertaining the rate of the heart, men aged between twenty and twenty-five years have 60 pulses per minute; a woman between twenty and thirty 71 pulses; and, thirtieth year the number of pulses gradually decreases. At the age of thirty-one it's 70 pulses, etc., etc.

But this pulse-age discovered works correctly only when the lady is perfectly round and healthy. According to judges will have to put up with a lot of prevarication in future, too.

Q.R. INSPECTED BY HIGH GENERALS

Are Under Approving Eye of Many of England's Most Distinguished Soldiers

Aldershot, Sept. 2.—General Smith-Dorrien with General Maxse watched the evolutions of the Queen's Own Rifles for two hours yesterday in glorious sunshine. Sir John French inspects them on Monday and the Duke of Connaught on Wednesday. Next week the regulars will be subject to divisional and command maneuvers. Then comes a holiday in London, when the Lord Mayor lunches with them in Guildhall.

On September 18th they enter the army manoeuvres, remaining in the field until they entrain for Liverpool. The officers have faced piles of invitations to dinner and have solved the problem by dining in contingents at various messes each night.

Tomorrow Col. Pellett dines with Ex-Servt. Eugene.

A pleasant feature of the camp is the number of relatives who visit the men. In a cricket match between Canadians and Englishmen, the former won.

"Resolved: That this association commend Dr. Joseph S. Neff, director of the department of public health and charities, for his earnest efforts to prevent this indiscriminate sale of so-called 'soothing' syrups and tonics, and the members of this association give the department every possible aid and encouragement in this excellent work."

ENGINEER KILLS WOULD-BE BANDIT

Threw Rock at Desperado and Hit Him in Head, Killing Him Instantly

COLORADO WAS SCENE

Engineer of Train Was Shot in the Leg By the Unknown Bandit

Colorado Springs, Sept. 2.—In a desperate attempt to hold up the west bound Colorado Midland No. 2 four miles west of the divide, early this morning an unknown bandit was instantly killed by a rock thrown by engineer Frank Stewart, after he had shot the engineer in the leg. Stewart and Charles Martin, two young men who were found near the scene of the holdup, held fire investigation, to their complicity in the robbery. Sterling Martin was slightly wounded.

Shortly after the holdup Sheriff Von Fal and a posse scoured the country near the scene of the attempted holdup, and discovered the Martin brothers hiding in the bushes. The dead robber wore a cloth mask and a gunny sack tied about his neck. He was armed with two revolvers, which have evidently not been used for a long time.

The engineer and the fireman say he spoke with a Swedish accent.

THE COW LIKED IT, WHAT?

And the Man That Owns the Cow Likes Peace River Country, Too

Wonders will never cease! Many have been held spellbound of late by stories of the marvelous march north, the climate and vegetation are subtropical, but the latest surpasses all. A man went into the Peace River country this summer to look the country over and drove along with him a cow. All summer long they had milk in abundance and strange to say, butter. The cream of the milk skimmed fresh in the morning was turned to butter by the time the noon camp was made. Truly that cow must have fed on strange herbs to have turned out such quick results!

The best part of the story follows: The man who drove the cow is a wealthy Texas rancher and is soon to be with the country that he will bring out two hundred head of stock next spring to run in the Peace River valley.

POLICE GET WOODS, CHARGE IS MURDER

Mounted Police Caught the Man Charged with Killing Hector Murray

Alix, Sept. 2.—Detective Sergt. Tucker, Constable Thorne, Corporal Davis and Constable Nash, R.N.W.M.P., left town at six o'clock yesterday morning and Sharkey, a partner of Murray, accompanied them. They overtook Clarke Woods, who struck the blow, and his companion, Carl Johnson, Fred Johnson, Jos. Setter and a man nicknamed Missouri, 35 miles south of Alix. Alix ran for the brush.

Tucker, Thorne and Sharkey pulled their guns and captured all but Missouri, who got away in the heavy timber. The capture was made at 1:30 and they arrived at Alix at 10 p.m.

At the instant yesterday afternoon the evidence of Dr. Graham and E. A. Marshall was taken. It then adjourned until ten o'clock Monday. The preliminary hearing will be after the inquest on Monday.

The men did not know Murray was dead until they arrived in town. Detective Sergt. Tucker said this morning that all but Woods would be held on a vagrancy charge only in order to have them for witnesses. Woods is formally charged with murder. Woods' age is 22. No statement was made public by the officers in charge.

BRIAL MURDER NEAR ALIX

One of the most brutal murders occurred six miles south of the Grand Trunk bridge at the Red Deer River on Wednesday afternoon, when a teamster named Woods struck Hector Murray, a member of the firm of Holmes, Murray & Sharkey, with a whisky bottle that was two-thirds full, so that he brought it in the hay, but this he refused to do and went away in a temper.

About 4:30 in the afternoon Woods with four other laborers, went up to Murray, where he was standing talking to E. H. Marshall, a G. T. P. engineer, and Staynes, a sub-contractor, and said:

"Did I work five days for you?"

Murray replied that he knew nothing about it. Woods then demanded five days' wages, which was refused. He then turned to his companions and asked them what he had better do.

One of them replied, "Get your revolver." Whereupon Woods turned to Murray and threatened to kill him with the revolver which he held in his hands, and which was two-thirds full of whiskey unless the money was forthcoming.

Upon Murray's again refusing and telling him to settle it at the camp, Woods struck him a blow on the temple, felling him to the ground and turned and walked with his companions to the river bank, where the five sat down and finished drinking the whiskey. Later they forced the river and walked toward Ruske's camp.

"TO LET" SIGNS VERY SCARCE

Shortage of Houses in the City at Present, Which Is a Good Sign

MANY HOUSES BUILDING

But They Won't Be Ready Much Before Winter—Lots of People Housekeeping Now

At present there is somewhat of a shortage of houses to rent within the city, particularly in the west end. According to one real estate dealer the shortage became more noticeable than usual around August 15th and now the same agent hasn't one house on his list, while many people enquire for houses daily. Other agents are having the same difficulty, but one or two state that they find the supply just about equal to the demand, and that there will also be sufficient to house those families which will come to the city before the winter.

There are many houses in the western part of the city which are in a state of construction and as many will be completed before long, it is hoped that the shortage will be lessened to an extent. A shortage of houses is a good sign, when it is considered that, according to one real estate dealer, two or three years ago there were twenty vacant houses on one street, but it is decidedly inconvenient to those who have to walk the street and confab with the over-enterprising agents in order to secure a decent roof for themselves and families.

REAL SELF-GOVERNMENT

There has been much talk recently about the great advantages of the "initiative, referendum and recall." Some very pertinent remarks on this subject were made recently by the Toronto Star:

"Among the people who have made a fetish of elections, the Americans are probably the most completely superstitions. Almost every adult Canadian has had the experience of being amused by an American friend who was quite sure that Canadians are an enslaved and down-trodden race because they do not elect their Governor-General. In such a mind freedom and self-government do not mean what they say, they mean only a form called an election."

"But many Americans are awaking to the fact that voting may be one thing and popular self-government a different thing; and, very wisely and sensibly, they are turning from the form and toward the fact. The agitation for change takes different forms in different places, but the most reasonable, and, thus far, the most successful, is the combination known as initiative, referendum and recall. The words suggest the idea—the people have power to initiate legislation, to vote on legislation initiated by their representatives, and to revoke the mandate of any elected person. As well as can judge of a practical proposal before it has been worked out in detail, it is the best form of popular self-government in a modern form. It is not to be wondered at if it now converts to this system seen in it the salvation of every community from misgovernment."

"But we of British allegiance wrong ourselves if we allow the impression to prevail that we waited for this new invention to give us self-government. Our municipal institutions may lack something that the new invention can supply, but, so far as Dominion and Provincial affairs are concerned, the people govern themselves, not only on election day, but all the time. The political mechanism known as responsible government is just as effective as the system now so strongly advocated, and it has the undoubted advantage of being a part of our national growth instead of an imported system."

"On the other hand, our system politicians have found means to 'heat the machine,' but if anybody supposes that the politicians will not find how to work the same trick with any system that can be invented, he should contemplate human nature and read a little history."

"Aside from practical difficulties that will arise in future through the selfishness and general 'cussedness' of humanity, there is one cardinal defect in the new system in contrast with which, the responsible government system shows to immense advantage. The new system takes into account only policy, but a policy is not a thing by itself; perhaps more important than the policy is the man who is to carry it out. Pure democracy is not only not incompatible with leadership, it is impossible without leadership. The glory of the responsible government system is that it enthrones the leader who is best fitted to carry on the policy, making him and his ideas the expression of the people's will, both in framing and interpreting the laws. He holds his place after notice to quit and, as soon as no ceases to be the one best voice for declaring the popular will, he gives place to his natural successor."

WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE?

A rather peculiar case has arisen in New York in connection with the downfall of a cashier in a department store who for many years occupied the position honorably, but who was the other day arrested for stealing $15,000 from his employers. The story presents some features that should interest psychologists.

Here is the story:

The cashier entered the store as an errand boy and rose to cashier within a few years. He and the store detective became great friends, every morning the latter would pause at the former's cage and say in a jocular way: "Well, old man, I'll get you yet," whereupon the cashier would reply, "Yes, I guess you will, but not today." Finally the job proved serious and the detective got him.

Now the question is: Did not the reiterated suggestion in the threat act as an inducement even in upsetting that man's moral balance. Was the cashier altogether responsible for his downfall, or should not the joking detective shoulder some portion of the blame for driving the suggestion of dishonesty a little deeper every day until it affected the cashier's whole moral fabric.

HORROR SEEKERS

Automobile speeding races are usually attended with some serious accident. The people know this. But thousands flock to see such races, and where will you find the biggest crowds? At the safe home stretch? Not usually. The crowds always gather at the most dangerous curves. And why? In the heat of seeing some serious accident, it seems that people think much should be done to prevent it. What a person really says is: "If there should be a thrilling accident, I might as well be there to see it." And yet most of these same people are tender-hearted and kind usually.

The same thing occurs when a sensational brutal murder takes place. Crowds flock to the scene of the tragedy to see a house, a clump of bushes, or a few blood stains, anything that was in any way connected with the crime.

There's a queer streak in most of us, that dates back to somewhere near the stone-age.

What Others Say

ROOSEVELT'S WESTERN TOUR

From the Vancouver Province

The prevailing comment in the newspapers of the United States in regard to the Western tour which Mr. Roosevelt is now taking is that the tour is part of a movement to make him President again. It is pointed out that it makes little difference whether he has deliberately started on the tour with such a plan developing in his own mind, the important fact being that he has placed himself in a position to make such a movement. The States through which the tour will pass are the States where his enthusiastic admirers, who are bent on having him return to the White House, are most numerous. Already, though he has only just entered the regions which are peopled by his most enthusiastic adherents, the receptions which he has given at the places where he has spoken since he started for the West, beginning with the unopposed authorization of the picnic of some ten thousand farmers and their families, on the opposite side of the Rocky Park, near Utica, N. Y., where he delivered his first speech of the tour, make it appear evident that the tour will be nothing short of a triumphal progress.

But the prophets who are predicting that Mr. Roosevelt will again be a candidate for the Presidency are forgetting the announcement which he made on the night of November 4, 1904, when the returns were in, announcing his sweeping and unopposed election to the Presidency. Without waiting even until the next day, he wrote the following pledge, which appeared the next morning in the newspapers, together with the news of his unexampled success at the polls:

"I am deeply sensible of the honor done me by the American people in thus expressing their confidence in what I have done and have tried to do. I appreciate to the full the solemn responsibility this confidence imposes upon me, and I shall do all that in my power, like a true patriot, to fulfil it. On the fourth of March next I shall have served three and one-half years, and this three and one-half years constitutes my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form. Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for, or accept another nomination."

Surely this pledge, which is as explicit and binding as it is possible for a pledge to be, should be regarded as putting it out of the question that Mr. Roosevelt is aiming at another nomination, or that another nomination could be forced upon him. But, at the same time, no conclusion in regard to Mr. Roosevelt would appear to be more fully justified than that in some way or other he is determined to play a large part in the politics of the United States. The course he has pursued since his return from his hunting expedition in Africa and his spectacular tour in Europe has been such as to create the keenest expectancy in regard to what he will say in his speeches on the present tour. any interest at all in the public affairs of that country knows that the ex-President has not yet pronounced his promised verdict upon the administration of his successor, and this fact alone is sufficient to whet curiosity.

He made Mr. Taft President. It is the general belief that he is not wholly pleased with his successor. It is known that he retains with pleasure President Taft's most implacable critics in his innermost personal circle of lieutenants and followers. A situation could not fail to provoke and maintain popular interest in his present Western tour. He is still a young, strenuously and wonderfully keen-witted public man, whose career thus far has been phenomenal. The presumption is that, during his present tour, he will be constantly seeking to test his present popularity with the popularity which he achieved during his Presidency, seems a just one. Only two years remain before the nominations of the next Presidential candidates. If he cherished the ambition to be President again, this would be exactly the strategic time for a demonstration that he is still number one. His hold upon the masses of his fellow countrymen. The present tour will be unquestionably such a demonstration; and the interesting question is, how far Mr. Roosevelt looks forward to using that great power of his in United States politics?

WRITING CANADA DOWN

(From the Toronto Star.)

The Winnipeg Telegram criticizes severely the literature employed by a Missouri official to coax Americans from Canada. Winters eight months long, winter days short and very cold, blizzards three and four days a week, no regular postman, are some of the things that make the Missourian long for his sunny Southern home, according to these accounts.

"After the first wheat crop has been harvested came the hard task of hauling it in miles over bad roads through wildernes, and, in spite of all efforts, only to discover there that the price paid per bushel was way under what the farmers had received in good old Missouri, and that the nearest market was England, many thousand miles away by land and sea."

Circulated in the United States, this literature may discourage some of those whose pioneer spirit is not strong. Circulated in Western Canada, it can do little harm, for it is read by those who are acquainted with the facts. When the truth is sifted out, it comes to this—that life in a cold country is not the same as life in a warm one; life in a new country is not the same as life in an old one.

If the human race had been composed of persons who are easily discouraged by such stuff, there would have been no colonization. The people who colonized Virginia, New England and New York, doubtless missed many comforts which they had enjoyed in old England and in Holland. But those who faced the initial difficulties found out that they had immensely improved their position in life. The pioneer spirit is the spirit of the Atlantic States, in contrast with Missouri. So the wave rolled westward until the United States became a powerful and fully well populated country. But there were probably always homesick people who looked back, yearned for the comforts of the older civilization, and repined over the hard lot of the new settler. Some of them got over their homesickness; others returned, others again developed into chronic grumblers.

If the weaker and easily discouraged brethren are lured back from Canada, it will not be Canada's loss. Canada's population will then represent a survival of the fittest, at least of the boldest, strongest and most hopeful. Canada need not, therefore, be anxious about those who go in for difficult colors the hardships of pioneer life. The country lies in such a position that it will always be open to an American to come over and see it for himself, and so long as this opportunity exists, we have nothing to fear.

ANNEXATION OF KOREA

(From the Winnipeg Telegram.) By the stroke of a pen the Hermit Kingdom has ceased to exist, and Japan has added twenty millions to her population, enormously increased her territory and doubled her resources.

This great dynastic change has been regarded in the western world with complete indifference, but it is pre-eminently meaningful just the same. It definitely makes Japan a continental Asiatic power, and, in spite of the recent Russo-Japanese convention, is only to preclude its complete absorption of Manchuria.

The Koreans are of much the same blood as the Japanese, and are in much the same condition as the Japanese were a generation ago, which means that a generation hence, under Japanese discipline, they will be as effective as their new masters. This is emphasized the steady expansion of Japan relentlessly exercised against those unable to defend themselves.

But the lesson of this annexation should not be lost upon western nations. This is an age of intelligence, of many peace congresses, arbitrations and many similarly attractive facilities. Yet the last decade has seen a change in the destiny of South Africa brought about by a war, a complete reversal of affairs in the Orient brought about by war, the forcible annexation by Austria of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the German war scare in Great Britain, and now the complete extinction of a nation of twenty million people.

What chance is there for peoples who are unable or unwilling to defend themselves? The whole tendency of the age is toward consideration, absorption, and, like the tendencies of most ages, it manifests itself through force inherent or applied. And how long would it be before the rich civilizations of the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand proved an irresistible bait to Oriental ambition if a Korean lethargy were allowed to overtake our fighting arm? Yet how continually necessary preparations for defence are attacked by misguided peace enthusiasts in those countries!

ARRIVING FOR THE GREAT CONGRESS

Cardinal Vanutelli Arrived at Quebec Yesterday—Welcomed by Great Crowds

Quebec, Sept. 2.—The Empress of Ireland, carrying Cardinal Vanutelli and suite, arrived this afternoon, the reception here being a fitting climax to the remarkable demonstrations that greeted him all the way up the river. The town and surrounding country were decorated as for a Canadian Pacific liner swum to her dock and the papal legate, accompanied by Cardinal Lavigerie, prime of all Ireland, and Archibishop Bruchés of Montreal, who had met the steamship at Father Point, boarded the government steamer Lady Grey, amid the thunder of the ancient and historic brass cannon in the seminary yard, the pealing of bells and the cheering of crowds, the mayor having proclaimed a holiday.

Dismarking at King's wharf, the distinguished party was met and welcomed by Archbishop Begin, Bishop Roy, Mgr. Marois and other distinguished clerics, the state being represented by Sir Jette, representing Lieutenant-Governor Sir C. A. Pelleter, Sir L. Guin, Premier, Mayor Drouin and members of the city council, President A. Turgeon of the Legislative council, and others prominent in provincial affairs.

Guards were furnished by the Zouaves and local corps, the escort being furnished by the Queen's Own Canadian Hussars, the band of the R.C.G.A. providing the music.

After a brief ceremony, the procession formed to the terrace, where a canopied throne was erected for the cardinals. Addresses were presented by Archbishop Begin and Mayor Drouin, it being remarked that while they could not be heard more than a few feet, Cardinal Vanutelli's voice carried to the outskirts of the multitude, in his appropriate reply.

AT THE CITY HALL

Commissioner Bouillon has asked the heads of the departments of electric heat, and telephones, for an explanation of the delay in extending their respective services to the site of the new hospital.

As the result of a letter to the city engineer by Alex. F. et C. E. New York, the work of laying in the narrow sewer ditch will be proceeded with.

Commissioner Bouillon has expressed the opinion that the clause in the building by-laws, referring to frame buildings in the first class fire limits, is not reasonable, this clause being too general. Commissioner Bouillon inside the statement when asked his opinion in regard to the recent decision of Judge Taylor.

LONG HORSEBACK TRIP

Vancouver, Sept. 2.—An interesting trip was recently completed by R. B. Kellher, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Travelling on horseback and by canoe, he covered the thousand odd miles from Edmonton to Prince Rupert. The trip was primarily undertaken to inspect the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific line as well as to inspect the construction work in progress in the section east of the Rockies.

SATAN SANDERSON

The doctor entered, and a glance at his patient alarmed him. Until dawn he sat with Jesus watching. When the east caught sight of the pale room, however, David Stires opened his eyes and looked upon her quite naturally.

"Where is Harry Sanderson?" he asked. "I thought he was here."

She looked at him with a forced smile. "You have been dreaming," she answered.

"I suppose so," he said, with a sigh. "But it was very real. I thought he came in and spoke your name."

She stroked his hand. "It was fancy, dear."

He lay silent a moment. Then he said, "If it could only have been Harry married instead of Hugh, for he loved you, Jessica."

"She dashed in," she said, "Ah, that was the first time since the day of her marriage that he had spoken Hugh's name."

ASSAULT CASE IN THE POLICE COURT

Edwin Clarke Charged With As-saulting Walter Spore at the Exhibition Grounds

The case in which Edwin Clarke is alleged to have assaulted Walter Spore at the exhibition grounds on Friday, August 26th in a quarrel over trinkets, was again before the police magistrate yesterday afternoon. After the taking of some evidence, the case was again adjourned until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The plaintiff, Spore, was the first witness.

"I was standing in one of the horse stables," stated Spore, "when Clarke came up to me and deliberately struck me twice in the face and then again on the chest. I asked Clarke to stop and ordered him not to do it again when he grabbed a switch and said that he had killed a better man than me before this, that he would kill me then. My wife then came between us and took the fork from Clarke."

Dr. Burgess gave medical testimony as to the injuries sustained by the plaintiff. He stated that several of Spore's teeth were loosened and that one of them had been completely broken off. Besides that he was bruised about the face.

Corroborative evidence was put in by Mrs. Spore, and Messrs. Hyndman and Stanley Morris.

E. B. Williams, counsel for the defendant, then asked for an adjournment so that he might call an important witness.

The charge of sheep laid against Wm. Krickhoff, by Clara Rawles, was withdrawn, but the defendant is being held by the police as a vagrant. Clara Rawles and Krickhoff had been travelling together, and had been at all the principal fairs in the west. The woman said that she had given the defendant $773 some months ago with the understanding that he was to repay it, which he had never done.

In the court, Morris, says T. P. Webbly, of the Hudson Bay Company, founded their trading station at Vancouver, their servants had dealings with the Chinooks, a tribe of Indians who lived in the Columbia River district.

The language of the tribe was very difficult to learn, and very difficult to pronounce when learned.

In consequence a kind of Chinook jargon was all that the traders could manage, and from this jargon which they spoke, a traders' lingua franca used by all has grown up.

When the pear to the Cariboo district took place, bringing a heterogeneous army of reckless gold-seekers from all over the world, Chinook was very largely used in dealing with the Indians, and developed in consequence.

The language now consists of words from French, English, Chinook, and other Indian tongues, and the speech south of the river.

Murray seemed to be only stunned by the blow. He got up and asked where the men had gone. Mr. Marshall started for town with him in a hurry, and about half-way he relapsed into semi-consciousness, and did about 1:30 on Thursday morning at the Grand Hotel.

The R. N. W. M. P. arrived in town about 6 a.m. Thursday and immediately spread out over the country in search of Woods, who has not yet been captured.

An inquest was held this afternoon by Drs. Denneau and Frankey, but after hearing the evidence of Marshall and Dr. Graham, postponed it till Saturday.

THE CHINOOK LANGUAGE

The Indian Jargon Which is Spoken Very largely in the Up-Country Districts of British Columbia

At the end of a long day's hunt after some strayed cattle, two horsemen rode up to a little shack, or hut, in the Shuswap country in British Columbia. The elder of the two, a tall, thin, sun-browned Canadian, riding the reins on his horse's neck, and, turning to the Indian who had come out of the shack to meet them, said: "Hiuak, hin muck-a-muck." The Indian turned back into the hut at once. "What lingo is that?" asked the young Englishman, his companion. "Oh, that's Chinook. You'll soon learn it. What I said to him was: 'Quick, bring some food.' This was the Englishman's first introduction to Chinook.

The grocer's first question to the man who had asked him to weigh a flatiron, a pair of curling tongs, a French novel and a jar of ground coffee at the same time seemed irrelevant.

"Boy or girl?" said he. "Girl," said the man.

Then the grocer dumped the miscellaneous assortment into the scales and said 9½ pounds.

"Happens every little while down here, where not many people have scales of their own, he explained, "you have to weigh it in halves. It's a minute it hangs, so they balance it with odds and ends that exactly tip the beam, then the next dav they weigh the things and find out baby's heft"—New York Sun.

"Didn't you find it very difficult to get into communication with all your relatives? I asked the man who had just finished writing his family history.

"Not so bad as I thought; but I fear the method I employed was not strictly aboveboard."

"What did you do?" I asked with ardent curiosity.

"I got the names to publish a notice that I had died a millionaire without kin," he replied.—Chicago News.

THE TROUBLE-MAKER

The last week of the Western Canada Baseball League season has been an eventful one, and also one which will tend to leave a bad taste in the mouths of Edmonton and Calgary fans.

There are a number of good sports in Calgary who deey the stand the baseball club of that city took and were not backward in stating that Calgary baseball club should not have taken its arbitrary stand on post-season games. In the first place it is an uncharitable occurrence to have post season games held all in one city. When Toronto and Columbus played on Aug. 10 for the Class A championship games were evenly divided between two cities. Last October New York Nationals and Boston Americans, who finished third in their respective leagues, played post season games in both cities. By what precedent did Calgary take its stand?

President Eckstrom, who must have spent nearly all Wednesday in a long-distance phone box, told the Capital, that when he said Calgary "was the logical place," he did not say that the games should be played there. Calgary made a big fuss about that phrase in the telegram, in fact based their whole stand upon it, while in reality, it meant nothing at all.

We really believe that President Middleton, his director would have consented to split the series between the two cities, but for Manager Carney. Carney seems to wield a powerful influence over the whole directorate, and what Bill says, goes. He told them not to give in, and they, ignoring all the financial benefit of a post-season series, foolishly acceded to his demands. We do not entirely blame the Calgary directors. The one man who has made a farce of the Western Canada League ending, who practically killed baseball in Edmonton and Calgary, is Wm. Carruthers. And even with all his cleverness, his holding-up of technicalities, etc., he over-stepped the mark, and by slipping up on Tuesday night, put the house of cards to the ground. He has not added to his baseball reputation by his work this season, and we feel certain that even the admiring baseball fans of Calgary will have had an elegant sufficiency of the world's dictator of the Western Canada League.

DOMINION AMATEUR HONORS

Vancouver, Sept. 1.—It is not yet known which Eastern team the V.A.C. boys will be pitted against when they travel east in quest of the Mann Cup. Three teams, Tecumsehs and Young Torontos of Toronto, and the St. Catherines' were tied for honors in the C.L.A., and they are now playing an extra series to decide the issue. It is expected that the final match will be played before September 10. In the event of St. Catherines winning it is expected that the team will be requested to defend the Mann Cup against Vancouver in Toronto.

WANT AN EASTERN OFFICIAL

Montreal, Aug. 31.—At a special meeting last night of the Nationals it was decided to ask the Minto Cup trustees for Minto Cup data for the New Westminster on September 17 and 24. Conditional with the challenge the Nationals request that an easterner be named as one of two officials. Unless this is granted they will not make the trip to the coast.

If they go they will play four exhibition games as well, two each with Vancouver and Westminster, during the New Westminster exhibition. The Nationals do not need the money, having cleaned up $20,000 this season, but the French-Canadian officials do not propose to pass up any heats.

It is now again up to the trustees who will have a difficult job convincing Westminster that an eastern official should be enlisted in this game. The argument against has been gone over too many times to be repeated, but the east still insists and the question is whether the trustees will in the end still the clamor by giving way to it. The idea of the Nationals coming is attractive, but there is likely to be lively discussion before the matter is settled.

IN AT THE DEATH

The finish of the 1910 season of the Western Canada League was a sad affair.

On Thursday morning, Manager White, and the press representatives, called on President Middleton, and delivered to him the ultimatum of the Edmonton Baseball Club. It was that if the Calgary Club did not follow President Eckstrom's instructions and consent to a division of the post season games between the two cities, the Western Canada League would cease at 6 o'clock. At the appointed hour the delegation chased around to the Calgary president's office and had the following signed statement handed him:

"Manager White,
Edmonton Baseball Club:
Sir: I beg to advise you that the directors of the Calgary Club do not feel that they can make any change in the proposal for a post season series given you in my letter of yesterday. As President Eckstrom does not seem inclined to back up our contention in the matter I do not see that we can come to any agreement. Unless I hear from you to the contrary before 4 p.m. today, we will pay off our debt and disband."

"Yours very truly,
HAL E. MIDDLETON,
"President."

As this contention was as ridiculous in the extreme, and as President Eckstrom was bound to back up the claims of Edmonton for the pennant as by his statements, Deacon paid off his men at 6 o'clock and the Western Canada League season was dead.

CALLIES B LOST

The Callies B and North Edmonton football teams met last night to play off their tie in the U.S. Aids Charity Shield at North Edmonton. It is well known that these two old rivals were in the way of football, and last night's play was no exception. At times there was some very good examples of football, but the game all through was fast and excitement reigned from start to finish. There were some creditable pieces of work by several of the players on both sides.

On the Callies side Roxborough played his usual perfect game, with Lovell on the back line. C. Allen in goal also saved on many occasions. Coulin might have done a little more if he had used a little more judgment, and Lorraine played splendidly but it was too bad; Jack sent the ball over the bar at that.

On the North Edmonton side Spider White and Graham played their usual game. The Callies went up with five of their usual team and picked the rest up as they went.

And we feel sure had the Callies had their usual full team on they would have come home winners instead of losers, the score being 10-10 again.

The work of Orr, Hunter, Jackson and Rodenacher was easily safe, but the team that went against the Packers last night showed that had the B's been out in force, they would have won. There was quite a number of spectators out to witness the game, all mostly of North Edmonton district. In the absence of Pat Arnour, the official referee, Crews of St. George's handles the whistle.

The game was finished in the dark one suggested to put a light inside the and nobody could see the ball.

BRITISH SOCCER RESULTS

London, Sept. 1.—The following are the results of the old country football games played today:

First Division—Manchester City, 5; Bury, 1; Blackburn Rovers, 1; Notts County, 1; Woolwich Arsenal, 2; Manchester United, 2; Preston North End, 1; Middlesbrough, 2; Everton, 2; Tottenham Hotspur, 0; Sunderland, 2; Newcastle United, 1.

Second Division—Bolton Wanderers, 2; Stockport County, 2; Lincoln City, 0; Bradford, 0.

FIRST OF THE SEASON

Winnipeg, Sept. 2.—The first tragedy of the duck shooting season, which opened in Manitoba today, is reported from Baldur, Manitoba, when Allan Johnson, son of J. Johnson, aged 23, was fatally shot by a gun in the hands of his younger brother, the charge entering his stomach. The gun was supposed to be unloaded.

THE BASEBALL GAME

From the Alberta.

Loyal as the Calgary people are to Calgary institutions and to Calgary clubs, they are getting a bit weary over this baseball squabble, and are anxious to have it all over and ended. This debate among patrons of the game and fights between players on the street are doing the game and the different towns concerned no great amount of good in any way. The base ball game is a very good one, but if it is to wind up in this kind of a way every year, it would be better if we cut baseball out for a year, or so, until the baseball towns can select a president who can keep in control of affairs somewhat better than the present president.

As this is something more than a matter of athletics and reflects upon Calgary in general, it may be permitted in this part of the paper to say that Calgary should do something that is reasonable and that is honorable to get out of the present tangle—to solve the difficulty.

There is no need of baseball becoming anything more than a pastime or an entertainment, and when it gets down to warfare it would be better eliminated entirely. But there is no need of having any warfare about it.

BARNSTORMING TEAM NO. 2

There is another Western Canada League barnstorming team being organized, and it leaves today for the west. McIntosh, of Regina, is the manager, and he has signed up Bill Lussi, Slim Dell, Orlie, Duley, Eddie, Bill Jones, Bert Jones, Lethbridge, Harper and Gordon of Saskatoon, while Duggan, of Calgary, may accompany them. They have arranged games at Blaite, Helena, Billings, Great Falls, Livingston and Missoula.

THE CALGARY PLAYERS

The Rough Riders have arranged a benefit game for Saturday and field sports will also be included. Al Dretschko, now a member of the Calgary club, is waiting over for the field day.

GODING HOME

Jack Hickley left this morning for Seattle. Hick has a fruit ranch ten miles out of "Skyatle" and spends the winter in the bosom of his family.

Stu Spencer is going out to Alix to look over the field and see how prospects are for opening a pool room. If things don't look very good Stu may winter in Edmonton as he says that is "God's Country."

Chesty Cox has bought out a sign business in Calgary and has been working all week preparing the business. Chesty is a live business man and will without doubt make a success of his line of business. Chesty says he is through with the glare of the footlights "for ever." He will go back.

Moose Baxter has looked over Edmonton and Calgary carefully, and the idea of a baseball club has been born. He will go back to the city that the trustees had refused to consider for conditions attached to the Nationals challenge regarding the eastern, before the dates, and Mr. LeCouris was advised to strike out these clauses from his challenge. The Nationals' president wired this morning that he would do so, and a second challenge is now on the way. New Westminster will be interviewed at once regarding dates and the trustees will make all arrangements for the trip as soon as possible.

Henry Baxter, star pitcher of the Spokane City League will winter in Calgary and has already received a number of cement contracts. Still another of Moose's brothers will come to Alberta and will join Henry in the cement contracting business.

Jack Breman has had Seattle transportation over since he has been in Calgary but tonight made up his mind that his bad ankle would not allow him to do himself justice, so he will make tracks for his dear old Chicago town.

NOTES OF ESKIMOS

Immediately the news reached the Eskimos' hotel of Calgary's refusal to play as ordered by President Eckstrom, the Edmonton baseball players made haste to prepare for their departure.

As the Winnipeg team disbanded yesterday, the Edmonton All-Stars had to abandon their games in that city, but they will leave in a body for St. Paul and may also play Eau Claire.

The All-Stars are taking the Edmonton uniforms with them, and in any games played will represent the Alberta team.

The members of the eastern party,

Mr. Phil and Mrs. Dollar, Pete and

Mrs. Morse, and Roxy Walters. The following players will be picked up

en route: Lynch, Chick, Olsen, Brown

(Moose Jaw), Wilson, (Medicine Hat)

Pat Flanagan, of the Calgary team, may also accompany the Elmira N.Y.

State League team will join them in St. Paul where they play the Gothers.

A KNOCK FOR CARNEY

From the Calgary News.

Manager Carney will admit now that trying to win a pennant off the diamond is a losing game, but he should not be made to bear all the responsibility for Tuesday's fiasco. The officials of the Calgary Baseball Club are quite as much to be censured as is Mr. Carney.

There is displayed in the window of a local shoe store an interesting model of a British first-class cruiser. It is designed on the scale of 1 to 50 inch to one foot, and is about three feet in length. It is equipped with two twelve-inch and ten six-inch guns, and is propelled by an underground electric motor. It has been tested and found to develop a speed of three miles per hour. The designer, whoever he is, must be of an exceedingly painstaking mechanical aptitude for it is certainly a very neat specimen of workmanship. Mr. W. H. Weaver is the owner.

Mr. Malcolm McIntyre, emigration agent in Glasgow, Scotland, and formerly immigration agent at Strathcona, arrived in Edmonton yesterday. Mr. McIntyre is on a tour of Canada to get in touch with conditions here, for it is absolutely essential in immigration work to have information first-hand and up to date. He reports that the immigration from Scotland is increasing by leaps and bounds, and that with so many immigrants from Scotland as late, the standard as we all know has been considerably raised. The immigration movement is general all over Scotland and is by no means confined to the cities of the south.

The plans of the Dominion Bridge Company for the Goat Ravine Bridge are favored rather than the plans submitted by the Dickson Bridge Company, although the latter tender was slightly lower. The plans of the former company will, however, probably undergo a few minor changes in the instance of the city engineer.

FULL PERMISSION.

A hydrocephalic friend of a Narrator man, who was visiting the latter's place on the coast of Massachusetts, imagined that he was deriving some benefit by reason of the sea water he was drinking.

One day as the two strolled along the beach the hydrocephalic said to his friend:

"Dick, this sea water is really helping my dyspepsia. I've already taken two glasses of it this morning. Do you think I might take a third?"

"Well," returned the friend, with a gravity equal to that of his friend, "I don't think a glass would be missed. Tom," Lipincott's.

WHAT HAPPENED TO BABY?

Witness in Police Court Couldn't Remember—An Assault Case

Mrs. Lorena Matthews, who figured so prominently in the Chapman ex-tradition case a couple of months ago, was again in the limelight this morning, when she entered the box at the police court, and told the story of a row which is alleged to have taken place on August 23rd in a boarding house, at 606 Nanaimo avenue, of which she is the proprietress.

Chas. A. Proctor, a piano tuner, and Geo. Richardson were the principals in the case, the former clearing the last with difficulty, the latter giving the evidence of Mrs. Matthews, on her return from the exhibition grounds, where she had been employed as a waitress, she found Mr. and Mrs. Richardson packing up preparatory to getting out. She asked Mrs. Richardson what was the matter, the latter replying that she had been insulted by "that man," meaning Proctor.

"I asked her what he said to her," continued Mrs. Matthews, "and she told me that he had said nothing to her, but had jabbed her in the side with his elbow while coming home on a street car."

Mrs. Matthews said that she went into Proctor's room and asked him if it were true. Proctor denied it, and just then, Mrs. Richardson appeared at the door, and asserted that he did do it.

Mrs. Richardson then screamed for her husband," went on the witness, "and he came upstairs on the run."

Then followed a graphic description of the fight between Proctor and Richardson, the witness favoring the former.

It seemed to the witness that when she left the room to go and summon the police, Proctor was top.

Mrs. Matthews stated that she went to a store nearby to telephone for the police, but was advised by the telephone keeper not to do so, and therefore remained in the house and on entering saw her brother coming down stairs with Mrs. Richardson in his arms.

"He gave me the baby," said the witness.

"What did you do with the baby?" asked Mr. H. H. Robertson, who represented the plaintiff.

"I really couldn't say what I did with it," was the reply, which caused a titter around the court.

The case was finally adjourned after the hearing of a couple of other witnesses until this afternoon.

Principal McKee, of the public school of Stratford, said today that it was understood that the schools are cleared of everybody in from 50 to 55 seconds by the fire drill system. He also says that children are kept on the lower floors.

Miss Laura Irene Miller was married at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, to Mr. Alvin H. Pearce, of Edmonton, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Miller, 16 Belmont street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. G. Hughson, pastor of McDougall Methodist church.

ABOUT SEA-SICKNESS

One of the most curious errors as to seasickness is that it is a suffering which the sturdier ancients did not know. The statement has been made over and again, in English and in French. Really there is plenty of allusion to the trouble in the ancient classics. Above all there was that bout of sea-sickness which, according to Seneca, cost Cicero his life. It was so bad that rather than endure it any longer he put back to land, risking certain death at the hands of Mark Anthony's agents if they caught him as they did. Our very word "nausea" is simply Greek, meaning, literally, "ship sickness."

As to seasickness, the genial Margaret sailor who takes people out for a few hours' cruise gave the proper advice. "My husband is peculiarly liable to sea-sickness," said the lady, who had achieved the seat next the steersman. "Can you tell him what to do it?" Then genial sailor luffed the top-jig, ported the main deck, hauled on the bowline, lit his pipe, and set her two points off the wind, as he replied: "Don't you worry, mum: he'll know what to do."

Marriage is love personified. A receiving letter—a gossiping woman.

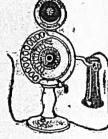

The ocean never sleeps and yet it never gets out of its bed.

"Let me give you a new wrinkle," said Worry to the woman.

ALWAYS SOMETHING TO LEARN.

President was arguing in favor of education by showing how before he was learning something every day by being "showing how."

He illustrated his point by describing the training of medical students, and concluded by telling of an old friend of his who had suddenly become deaf in one ear.

"How did it happen?" I asked him. "Well, I was blowing my nose one day, when I felt something snap in my ear followed by an aching pain."

"When the doctor came he said the drum was split, and asked if it did it."

"I only blew my nose I told the doctor."

"Well, had you opened your mouth when you blew your nose you would not have a damaged ear-drum," was the doctor's reply.

You see, my friend had lived seven years and had never been sick, except when he had a cold, and he complained President Eliot. The application was appreciated and greeted with a great burst of laughter.—Boston Journal.
